Voicemail Auto Attendant by Menu*+ Playing & Managing Your Messages

Voicemail Auto Attendant by Menu is not a standalone voice messaging tool - it is the menu for your overall voice messaging solution.

Voicemail Auto Attendant by Menu is a robust menu tool for any organization that allows you to establish multiple users on a voice messaging menu list. You can also attach multiple menus together to create an intricate messaging system. Voicemail Auto Attendant by Menu can be the perfect solution for organizations with employees on the go.

For a single Voicemail Auto Attendant menu, you can program up to 10 menu options (each option allows you to list the name of an individual or a department, for example, for your menu) from any voice mail mailbox number or working telephone number (no international numbers).

Voicemail Auto Attendant by Menu comes with the functions outlined below.

Override

Override allows you to temporarily forward your calls on an emergency basis. This feature can be requested by you at the time of installation and would be set up by Conversent should you need to use it. We provide you with access to administer Override implementation on an as needed basis. If you need to modify your Override forwarding number, you will need to contact Conversent Customer Care to make the change.

Schedule

Netmail Auto Attendant by Menu comes with a schedule established by you, the user. You tell us when and how you would like your menu to work. Supportable schedules types are normal daily scheduling options and holiday scheduling. Your Conversent Sales Representative or Sales Engineer will work with you to design your schedule.

Repeat Menu

You can establish how many times you want to repeat a menu to callers before you redirect or terminate the call. Conversent defaults to repeating a menu greeting twice.

Auto Exit

Auto Exit works with Repeat Menu. You can direct how you want calls to be treated when the caller has exceeded your repeat menu setting. Calls can be redirected to another number or terminated.

If you choose to have the call redirected, the caller is will experience brief silence and will then hear "Please hold. We are transferring your call."

Multikey

Multikey allows customers with 10 consecutive numbers to use 1-digit extension dialing so that individual extensions can be listed in the automated menu. Customers can also use 100 consecutive numbers to use 2 through 4-digit extension dialing. Numbers must be consecutive and the beginning number must end in a zero. An example of an acceptable set of numbers for ten consecutive numbers would be 222-2220 through 222-2229. An example of an acceptable set of numbers for one-hundred consecutive numbers would be 222-2200 through 222-2299.

If you would like to discuss any of these features with Conversent, please call Conversent Customer Care at (800) 275-2088 for assistance.
